

User Personas

Mr Pickles	University Lecturer
Mr Pickles has been a university lecturer in computing for over 20 years, having studied computing and worked in industry before becoming a lecturer he is aware of code quality methods and believes that using static analysis tools students can create better code and that it would ease in the use of marking students.

Amy Sticks	Developer
Amy Sticks has been a developer for 5 years and previous to that studied computing. Amy uses static analysis tools to check her code in her daily work and understands the benefits of writing quality code. Amy believes that the current tools used in her day job are sufficient.

John Apple	University Student
John is a first year computing student, before university john has had limited exposure to coding. John wants to have a better understanding of the quality of his code so that he can excel in his degree.

